Two American Battalions Now Beyond Nikolisk on Siberian Front

CZECHS HOLDING RAILWAY 2000 MILES LONG IN RUSSIA

Bolsheviki Threatens to Kill 36 British Officials If Premier Lenine Dies

VLADIVOSTOK, Sept. 9.—Two battalions of American troops have joined the Japanese and Czechs on the front line beyond Nikolisk. Another battalion is guarding the railway between Vladivostok and Nikolisk (about 50 miles.)

The discipline of the Americans has made them popular among the other Allied troops here.

VLADIVOSTOK, Sept. 9.—From Olovanya to Penza, a distance of 2000 miles, Czech-Slovak forces hold the railway, it was learned here today. (This indicates the Czech-Slovaks have penetrated more important areas of Russia, loosening the Bolshevik grip.)

GERMAN ARTILLERY IS AIDING THE BOLSHEVIKI

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—German artillery is lending aid to the Bolsheviks east of the Volga from Penza to Smolensk, according to state department advices today.

These said the Bolsheviks were gaining strength there because of this Teuton aid. There was also an official report they probably had taken Samara. If this is true, it means Orenburg, Simbick and Kazan are in imminent danger.

PRO-GERMANS CLAIM 36 BRITISH IMPLICATED

STOCKHOLM, Sept. 9.—Thirty-six British officials are imprisoned in Russia under threat of being shot if Premier Lenine dies, it was learned in a message from Helsingfors today. The British prisoners are accused of being implicated in the attempt to kill Lenine.

ITALIAN TROOPS NOW ON THE MURMAN COAST

ROME, Sept. 9.—Italian troops have arrived on the Murman coast, it was semi-officially announced today. (British and Americans have been operating into Russia from the Murman coast for some time.)

GIRL WHO SHOT LENINE EXECUTED ON WEDNESDAY

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Dora Kaplan, the girl who shot and seriously wounded Nicholas Lenine, Bolshevik premier, was executed on Wednesday, it was reported here today.

MAGYARS DISHEARTENED BY STRENGTH OF ALLIES

TOKIO, Sept. 6.—(Delayed.)—German magyars, former prisoners of war in Russia, are disheartened because of the Allied strength and because the number of Bolshevik volunteers is unsatisfactory, according to a dispatch from the Ussuri front to the Kokugai.

Desertions have become numerous. The Bolsheviks, according to the dispatch, announced they have mobilized the Amur Cossacks, who have offered to join the forces of General Semenov, Cossack anti-Bolshevik leader, provided Semenov will furnish them with munitions.

Russian soldiers meeting at Chita recently declared their unwillingness to fight the Czech-Slovaks and Japanese.

TOKIO, Sept. 6.—(Delayed.)—The enemy is threatening our communications between Manchuli and Dnari, said an official announcement of the war office today.

TOKIO, Sept. 6.—(Delayed.)—The Japanese Federation of Chambers of Commerce, meeting at Sapor, adopted a resolution asking all business men to participate in the economic regeneration of Siberia.

PATROL AND ARTILLERY FIGHTING IS REPORTED

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—"Aside from patrol encounters and heavy artillery fighting south of the Aisne, there is nothing to report," said General Pershing's communique today.

Germany Trying to Keep on Friendly Terms With Spain

Satisfactory Solution of U-Boat Differences Reported From Madrid Today

MADRID, Sept. 9.—A satisfactory solution of the Spanish-German controversy over submarine warfare was reported today to have been reached. The cabinet meets Wednesday to discuss it.

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 9.—Germany will try to keep on friendly terms with Spain despite the clash over submarines and Spanish seizure of German ships in reprisal. Admiral von Hintze, German foreign secretary, told correspondents of Madrid newspapers who interviewed him.

Boston: McInnis singled; Ruth sacrificed; Zeider to Merkle; Scott hit to Tyler, who threw out McInnis to Zeide; Thomas flied to Wortman; no runs.

(Note: Zeider now playing third and Wortman second for Chicago.)

Eighth Inning
Chicago: Killifer walked; Hendrix batting for Tyler, singled; Flack out, McInnis unassisted; McCabe now running for Hendrix; Hollocher out,

AMERICAN GUNS ARE HAMMERING AT LE PETIT MONTAGNE

Powerfully Protected German Height Near Aisne Under Heavy Artillery Fire

BY WEBB MILLER

(United Press Staff Correspondent)

IN FRANCE, Sept. 9.—American artillery has opened a heavy bombardment of Le Petit Montagne, a powerfully protected height which rises 250 feet where the German line leaves the Aisne.

This height is the key position to the enemy front in that region. It is furrowed with a strong trench system and its slopes and crest are defended with thick belts of barbed wire.

American batteries, including many six-inch guns, are hurling hundreds of shells into the slopes and onto the crest, ripping up wire, searching deeply indented wood ravines, infested with machine guns which command the valleys on each side, battering the trenches to ruins and generally making the mountain stronghold most unhealthy for the Germans.

The constant thunder of six-inch guns as the American artillery lashed the heights with a terrible hail of shells. German batteries behind the Aisne replied, bombarding Fismes and the back areas, dropping high explosives haphazard over miles of country in their search for our gun positions.

Simultaneously the American artillery with wonderful accuracy smashed the Aisne bridges behind the Germans, who are still on the southern bank of the river. As this is cabled five bridges have been torn up.

The enemy line from the Aisne southeastward across the crests of the plateaus toward Rheims is much the same as it was Saturday. The Germans early today were holding with determination to the tops of the tablelands.

It is mainly the strength of Le Petit Montagne, now being battered, which has slowed up the American advance toward the Aisne on the right of our line. A few more prisoners have been taken, including five who hid out for the purpose of surrendering when our troops reached their places of concealment. One was accompanied by a trained messenger dog.

W. S. S. WEALTHY STOCKMAN WILL BE INTERNED

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—Hugo A. Hoffman, of the big stock raising firm of Hoffman & Vetter, has been arrested as an alien enemy at Reno, Nevada, and will be interned at Fort Douglas, Utah, according to word received here today. He is accused of telling a Liberty Loan solicitor that the loan was "legalized robbery and the biggest graft ever put over in the country."

Hoffman had made Los Angeles his home for the last fifteen years.

Shean to McInnis; Killifer, scoring, and McCabe taking third; Mann singled to left, scoring McCabe and tying the score; Paskert out, Thomas to McInnis; 2 runs, 2 hits, no errors.

Boston: Douglas now pitching for Chicago; Schang batting for Agnew, singled, and took second on a pass ball; Hooper attempted a sacrifice and was safe at first on Douglass' wild throw, Schang scoring; Shean flied to Mann; Strunk flied to Paskert; Whiteman out, Zeider to Merkle; 1 run, 1 hit, 1 error.

Ninth Inning
Chicago: Schang now catching for Boston; Merkle singled to center; Zeider walked; Bush now pitching for Boston, and Ruth replaced Whiteman in left field; Wortman forced Merkle, McInnis to Thomas on an attempted sacrifice; Barber batting for Killifer, forced Wortman, Scott to Shean and was doubled at first to McInnis; no runs, 1 hit, no errors.

Final score:
R. H. E.
Chicago 2 7 1
Boston 3 4 0

Batteries: Chicago—Tyler, Douglas and Killifer; Boston—Ruth, Bush, and Agnew-Schang.

Chateau Thierry Liberated by Yanks

One of the first photographs to arrive in America of Chateau Thierry after its capture by American soldiers. It shows the havoc wrought by the HUNS and women and children who remained in the town during its occupation by the Germans.

BOCHES PROD ALLY PRISONERS WITH BAYONETS

THE HAGUE, Sept. 9.—Wounded British soldiers arriving from German prison camps tell of the harsh treatment imposed on British and American prisoners of war.

They stated 150 prisoners, including ten Americans captured in May, were forced to work from 6 a. m. to 6 p. m. carrying heavy rails and pushing trucks.

Their food consists of soup and one slice of bread each. When any of them failed to work their Hun guards prodded them with bayonets and clubbed them with rifle butts. One of the prisoners died as a result of this treatment.

W. S. S. FEDERAL CONTROL OF MOVIE 'EXTRAS' NOW

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—Federal control for movie actors today was at hand as the latest step in war reorganization.

A list of 500 approved "extras"—inclusive of actors under contract—has been made up by the War Service Bureau and from this list the movie producers will employ their people for minor roles. Persons on the list will carry certificates to protect them from arrest in any work or fight aids which may take place at the studios, but will in no way be exempt from the draft.

W. S. S. COL. C. B. BLETHEN EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 9.—En route to Washington, D. C., where he will take charge of a new branch of artillery, Colonel C. B. Blethen, adjutant of the north Pacific artillery district, stopped in this city yesterday. He is accompanied by Mrs. Blethen. Colonel Blethen is well known on the Pacific coast as publisher of the Seattle Times.

FATALLY HURTS DAUGHTER, THEN GERMAN HANGS SELF

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—Enraged because his daughter Clara, 21, interfered in a quarrel between himself and his wife, over who should use a reading lamp, C. A. Beam, a German architect, struck and fatally injured the girl, after driving her mother from the house, and early today hung himself. Miss Beam died a few hours after the quarrel.

Beam left a will written in German leaving his property to Mrs. Beam and saying he was sorry he had injured his daughter. He was reputed to be wealthy.

Worry over the war is believed to have unbalanced his mind.

GOLD FOR COMMERCIAL USES BANNED BY U. S.

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Gold for manufacturing purposes today was cut off from commercial America. In a telegraphic order, Ray Baker, director of the mint, instructed all mint and assay offices to discontinue at once the issuance of gold bars for any except essential war uses.

SENATE MAKE INQUIRIES INTO GASOLINE SITUATION

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Senate inquiry into the need of the gasoline-less Sunday order of the fuel administration was fore-shadowed today by the passage of a resolution introduced by Senator Lodge. The resolution directed the administration to give the senate the total production and consumption of gasoline and the complete data on the present surplus, and how fast it is being depleted.

BAKER SAW MT. VERNON; PAYS TRIBUTE TO CREW

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Secretary of War Baker, now in France, has cabled Secretary Daniels that he visited the transport Mount Vernon when it arrived in port damaged by a torpedo and paid high tribute to the ship's crew.

The cablegram says: "I have just visited and viewed the Mount Vernon. The high spirit and morale of its men and masterful seamanship of its captain and officers made such a stirring story of heroism that I wish the entire nation might know the splendid way in which the huge transport met and foiled the attempt to destroy her at sea. The traditions of your service are enriched by their conduct in this emergency."

DRIVE TO VICTORY BY AUTUMN SAID TO BE GERMAN PLAN

WITH THE AMERICANS IN FRANCE, Sept. 9.—A big German drive to victory by autumn is what Ludendorff is planning, according to young Lieutenant von Albersleben, whose father is said to be one of the kaiser's advisers.

When captured von Albersleben was smartly dressed and insisted on wearing a monocle. He replied insolently to his questioners. Asked his opinion of the present situation, he flippantly declared that Ludendorff is moving his troops according to tactical plans and that he later will make a big drive for a German peace this year.

8 ENEMY PLANES DOWNED SATURDAY

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Eight enemy airplanes and one captive balloon were destroyed by British airmen on September 7, the British air communique reports.

"Clouds and rainstorms limited operations in the air on September 7 but a great deal of aerial operation was called out, as well as reconnaissances and constant patrols," the communique said.

"Eight hostile machines and one balloon were destroyed by our airmen. Three of our machines are missing. Thirteen tons of bombs were dropped by us during the 24 hours. Our night bombing machines all returned safely."

Must Reckon With Big U. S. Force So Germans To Use Defensive Plan

THE HAGUE, Sept. 9.—In view of "relative conditions" the German general staff has decided to conduct future fighting on a defensive plan of strategy, according to the newspaper Vorwaertz of Berlin in copies received here today. The article stated German must reckon with 32 American divisions and half-trained Americans could be sent to quiet sectors to release trained troops for offensive operations.

FRENCH PATROLS VERY NEAR TO IMPORTANT TOWNS

Hindenburg Line Scene of Present Fighting; Enemy Resistance Stiffening

WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Sept. 9. (2:30 p. m.)—South of Gouzeaucourt British advanced guards attacked today. At noon the assault was going well.

(Gouzeaucourt is on the Hindenburg line southeast of Havrincourt wood.) LONDON, Sept. 9. (12:50 p. m.)—The French are now only four miles from St. Quentin and cavalry patrols are close to La Fere, it was learned this afternoon. The French now hold the Crozat canal on practically its whole length.

LONDON, Sept. 9. (12:50 p. m.)—The British are now attacking Gouzeaucourt, it was learned today.

British patrols have occupied Vermand (six miles north of St. Quentin) and Vendelles (north of Vermand), it was learned.

The British have reached the western and northwestern edges of Epehy (four miles south of Gouzeaucourt on the Hindenburg line). British patrols are reported to have passed through the village.

PARIS, Sept. 9. (10:09 a. m.)—French forces have reached positions close to La Fere and occupation of the city is probable, according to battlefront dispatches.

La Fere is one of the principal allied objectives. It is behind the Hindenburg line, 12 miles south of St. Quentin. The town is one of the strongest points in the Hindenburg defense system and is of the highest strategic importance.

BY WILLIAM PHILIP SIMMS (United Press Staff Correspondent)

PARIS, Sept. 9. (10 a. m.)—The French are at the gates of La Fere, which is still aflame. Fall of this fere of the Hindenburg line, which the allies were unable to occupy in 1917, is probable. St. Gobain, in the wooded hill country centering in that town, is tenable only with difficulty.

(The St. Gobain forest is one of the strongest defenses of Laon.)

The French can attack via Servais at the north, via Fresnes at the south and via Barisis and Auliers.

To the westward the Allies have taken Villeveque and St. Emil in their advance toward St. Quentin.

PARIS, Sept. 9.—French forces during the night advanced toward St. Quentin from the south and also gained in their thrust against La Fere from the north, according to the war official communique today.

The statement follows: "North of the Somme we enlarged our progression eastward of Avesnes to Clastres. We occupied the notable La Motte farm (southwest of St. Quentin).

"Our elements crossed the Canal Crozat opposite Liez (northwest of La Fere)."

"Between the Oise and the Aisne during the night there was united German artillery and infantry action. Two strong counter attacks in the region of Laffaux (northeast of Soissons) were repulsed. We took eighty prisoners belonging to five different regiments.

"In the Champagne the French made raids in the region of Mont Sansonne, taking prisoners. West of Auberville a German raid was unsuccessful."

LONDON, Sept. 9.—The Germans are making every preparation to defend St. Quentin and Laon against the advancing allies, dispatches from the front indicated today. French troops are reaching striking distance of St. Quentin. They are reported close to La Fere, a strong position in the Von Hindenburg system. A German concentration of German guns had been observed north of Craonne (on a line between Rheims and Laon, just above the Chemin des Dames).

In their night reports the French and French war offices noted steady progress and stronger enemy resistance in some places. On their southern flank the British have recaptured the positions they held before the Germans started their offensive March

ALL OF WESTMINSTER JOINS IN TRIBUTE TO CARROLL BYRAM AT MEMORIAL SERVICE FOR SOLDIER

FIRST GOLD STAR IS SET IN COMMUNITY SERVICE BANNER

Allied Flags in Military Array Decorate Church; Many Friends Present

WESTMINSTER, Sept. 9.—Sunday morning, Sept. 1, the Westminster community passed through the experience which so many communities have passed, and are being called to pass through in the last few months since our country entered the great world war, that of holding a service in memorial of one of its own loved boys, for Carroll Byram, who gave his young life in truly Christian spirit for the just cause of humanity now in the balance.

Carroll was indeed one of Westminster's very own, being born and raised at the home where the family now reside; a graduate of the Westminster school; a faithful member of the Presbyterian church, which on this occasion was draped in military array in honor of its hero and filled with friends come to express in this way, feelings too deep for words.

The two churches of the community joined in the service, friends by the score from far and near of him whose resting place was destined to be on the battlefields of France, far from his homeland where the tears of a sorrowing community could not fall, were present, and mingling with them were others, not personal friends, perhaps, but nevertheless, he was their hero still, one who had fought bravely and gallantly and made the supreme sacrifice for their cause, our cause, the cause of all.

Numberless were the flags adorning the main auditorium of the church and the Sunday school rooms which were thrown open to admit the large crowd. Mingling with the Stars and Stripes on the one hand, were the Union Jack of England, the Rising Sun of Japan and the Shield of Italy, on the other the Tri-color of France, with the colors of Belgium, the combined Allied emblems under which he for whom they were unfurled that day, had given his life a willing sacrifice.

The front of the auditorium, the pulpit and the altar were decorated separately with the Stars and Stripes alone, draped and in clusters forming a beautiful and appropriate setting for photographs of Carroll ranging in time from babyhood to manhood. Some with his brother, taken in childhood days, one as a graduate of Occidental College taken in cap and gown just a short 15 months ago, three in his soldier uniform, two alone and one with his company, the last taken on the eve of their departure from Camp Lewis, September 1, 1917, just one year to the day of the date of the memorial service.

Above all floated the two service flags, those of the community and of the church, each bearing its recently added gold star, the first to mingle in the cluster of blue, the one a cluster of sixteen, the latter of six.

Softly the tones of the organ in the instrumental prelude, played by Mrs. H. B. Anderson, stole through the impressive silence as the service began and was followed by the hymn "Abide With Me," by choir and congregation, and the pastor, Rev. W. T. Wardle, who also gave the scripture reading taken from 2 Tim. 2:1-13 and Rev. 22:1-7.

"He Knows It All," was sung as a duet by W. E. Smith and Miss Elizabeth Smith, followed by a beautiful and touching prayer by Rev. H. H. Roissy, pastor of the Westminster Methodist church.

Prior to the sermon, Rev. Wardle read a fitting obituary and coupled with this four of the many letters of condolence received by the family since they received the word of their loss a few days previously.

Following this W. E. Smith feelingly sang the solo, "One Sweetly Solenn Thought." After the sermon "My Jesus as Thou Wilt," was sung, by choir and congregation.

Among the relatives and friends outside of those of the immediate community who were attendants at the memorial service, were Mr. and Mrs. George W. Mack, the former a brother of Mrs. Byram, their daughter, Mrs. Wood Boyce, Arthur Mack, also a brother of Mrs. Byram, Mr. and Mrs. Will Meyers, and daughter, Miss Helen Meyers, cousins, John Fredrick, Mrs. Una Wood, Walter Byram, a brother of O. B. Byram, and wife, all of Los Angeles; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Bowe, daughters, Mildred and Hollis, and son, Lorraine, of Santa Ana; Mrs. Ellen Young, all cousins of Mr. and Mrs. Byram; Mr. and Mrs. Abel Solomon of Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Grisot of Greenville, Mr. and Mrs. T. B. Talbert of Huntington Beach (the latter having been Carroll's class teacher at the Huntington Beach high school); Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Hosack and two sons and sister, Miss Margaret Hosack of La Habra; Merton Hosack of Huntington Beach, Clyde Day of the U. S. S. Oregon, stationed at San Diego; Mr. and Mrs. Frank Turner and daughter of Stanton, Mr. and Mrs. W. G. Alford and son Russell of Santa Ana, Miss Elizabeth Reed of Santa Ana.

CORP. WILFRED CARROLL BYRAM
Westminster Soldier Killed in Railway Accident in France

Obituary of Westminster Soldier Killed in France As Read By Rev. Wardle

Wilfred Carroll Byram was born at Westminster, Nov. 18, 1894. He died from railway accident in France, July 25, 1918, aged 23 years, 8 months, and 7 days. He was the son of Mr. and Mrs. O. B. Byram of Westminster. He graduated from the grammar school in 1908 and from the Huntington Beach Union high school in 1912. A year later he entered Occidental College, completing the regular four-year course, graduating at the age of 22. Giving attention to his studies with the blessed necessity of working his own way, he completed his college course. During the last year in college in 1916, he enlisted in Company B, California Engineers and mustered for training in Los Angeles. In July, 1917, the company was called to the colors, and sent to Camp Lewis, where they were re-organized into Company E, 117th U. S. Engineers, becoming a part of the 42nd or "Rainbow Division." The company left Camp Lewis for Long Island on Sept. 1, one year ago, and with the "Rainbow Division," left for France, Oct. 15, 1917.

His view of army life we may get from his own words, contained in a letter home: "Men don't join the army to become rich or famous, but to do their part and serve their country. If everybody would give up all personal ambition and work for the good of the cause, it would be the ideal condition." He became a member of this church when nine years of age, having been given to God previously by his parents in baptism. As he grew to manhood, he more and more manifested those sterling qualities essential to true manhood. Clean as a hound's tooth, an honor to his parents, a credit to his church, he saw his duty, without show, he saw his duty, accepted it, and there on a foreign soil, his earthly tenement sulted from a railroad accident. The letter received Tuesday was from Mrs. L. E. Miller of Anaheim, whose son, Edwin L. Miller, is a member of Company E, Los Angeles Engineers, of which Carroll was a member, and who previously was an intimate friend of his at Occidental College. Mrs. Miller had received a letter written under the date of July 31 by her son, in which he gave the particulars of Carroll's injuries but did not mention the fact of his death, so it was evident he had not heard the result at the time of writing. Carroll, he said, was struck by a low bridge while on the train as the company was being transferred to the place from which he was writing and received two fractures of the skull. He was left unconscious immediately following the accident at a French base hospital.

Among other letters received by the Byram family was one from Dean Thomas G. Burt, of Occidental College, who, with his wife, were the class parents of Carroll's class and took a personal interest in him throughout his college career. The letter was one of sympathy and consolation to the family from Dr. and Mrs. Burt personally and also in the name of Occidental, and mentioned some of the admirable characteristics observed in Carroll while with them. This community joins with the other innumerable friends of Mr. and Mrs. Byram and family with offers of consolation in this, their hour of bereavement.

Died With Marks of His Valor
"Better be a mother of a dead soldier than the mother of a live slacker," said Rev. Wardle in the memorial sermon. "How can a man die better than by facing fearful odds for the betterment of the world? Someone has said: 'A good true man child is Omine of Sermon.' Someone has said: 'A good true man child is the best job ever turned out. Such a man would wipe away the tears of a baby with a hand gentle as a woman's, or would die with his feet to the foe.' Carroll Byram died with the marks of his valor and his pain upon him and this without any of the refinements of the funeral artist. 'A Good Soldier of Jesus Christ'—A man may be a soldier and not be good. He may be a good soldier, but far more is it to be a 'good soldier of Jesus Christ.' Such a one will have the hall-marks of a soldier. He will is at rest.

He leaves behind, his parents, two sisters and three brothers. He went to right a bleeding nation's wrong, and proved that he was not afraid to die. So we, who stare across the lonely hours, must only think of that great gift he gave, must think of other lives that his will save; and know that when the tender, heaving showers have fallen in a stranger land, the flowers will bloom, like prayers, upon a hero's grave.

Rev. Wardle then read several letters which he said were samples of the many received in the home during the past week.

One from Prof. E. E. Chandler of Occidental College follows: Dear Friends: We have learned of the death of Carroll in France and we express our sympathy to you in your bereavement. Carroll made a fine record at Occidental and endeared himself to all of us by his many character and genial disposition. I recall him as if it were but yesterday, doing his work in the laboratory, cheerfully and faithfully, just as he did in the larger service to which he was called.

Living he was a credit to you and after laying down his life for his country, he is even more so. Although we cannot lighten your grief, we wish you to know that we share it. In sorrow, the Chandlers.

He also read the night letter received from his brother, Roy M. Byram, Galveston, who is continuing his studies following enlistment in the medical reserve corps.

One was read from Mrs. Jean A. Koethen of Eagle Rock, whose son, Theodore Koethen, and Carroll stood side by side in the ranks as the company left Los Angeles, and whose death from appendicitis was reported two weeks before. She writes, "Now they are both with their Heavenly Father away from all the strife and hardship and home-sickness. It makes the heavenly home seem very near, doesn't it? and the years between us and the home-coming not so many nor so important." A memorial service was held for Theodore Koethen at the Presbyterian church in Eagle Rock at 3 p. m. of the same day of the service here, at which Carroll was mentioned and gold stars placed on the service flag there for the two.

Another letter read was from a college friend who was also a member of the same Christian Endeavor Society and closed with the words: "I trust you will find comfort in this verse, 'And God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes; and there shall be no more death, neither sorrow nor crying, neither shall there be any more pain, for the former things are passed away.'"

Then followed the letter from Madame M. Barber of France to the mothers of America addressed to Mrs. Woodrow Wilson. "It is from the mothers and women of France that I send you these words to prove our brotherly support that these young Americans bring us with such noble enthusiasm, who are not afraid of leaving their families, their country and their hopes to come to our rescue. Alas, I myself have given my beloved son to my unhappy and cruelly tried country and I can understand the pain of those who see their sons go so far, so very far away. Tell them, these mothers, these women with the sublime hearts, how near we are to them in that and how moved we are at their sacrifice. They are our sisters through suffering and agonizing worries, and we are brought together through the same sorrow. That, we will never forget."

have learned OBEEDIENCE—the first and last law in military circles—obedience to authority, to commands, to orders. The lamp of obedience has been burning low in our land, but the flame is burning more brightly. Carroll died at his post, obeying orders.

Not All Soldiers Are on Fighting Front
The 10,000 Chinese coolies, the tens of thousands of men behind the lines, the horses and mules needed to carry supplies of food, drink, medicine and anything on wheels can advance and these and more are necessary and essential units in effecting results. Three to six men are needed back of the front lines for every man facing the foe. Each in his place, doing his assigned part—man and mules and dogs yielding all—life itself, for a cause worthy of a freeman. This is the supreme task and duty. And Carroll proved faithful.

Not All Soldiers Are Living
Six millions have been killed. Six millions have been seriously wounded. Six millions have been taken prisoners, which in many cases means something worse than death. There are 200,000 British graves in France.

Why are we living when so many have gone over the top to the end of the trail? Are we any better, nobler, more sacrificing, more worthy? Have we been more faithful to duty, to God? Why have we been spared?

To live means duty, service, sacrifice, obligation to God, then to our fellowmen. To reverse this order is to fail in all.

The supreme question of this occasion concerns not so much "over there" as "over here." It is everlasting a personal challenge. "It is for us to be dedicated to the cause for which our heroes died—that we here resolve that these dead shall not have died in vain." In your home community our part is here and now till the great conflict is ended. Somewhere in France the Red Cross has or will put over Carroll's grave a cross. On its transverse is a metal shield, on which in low relief is shown a soldier with a broken sword, with his face to heaven; below the inscription, "He died to make men free." Our task here and now is to live, serve, sacrifice.

Let me tell you a story, a bit of history: He was a physician. Though not physically strong, he heard the call to serve France. If his life torch should burn a little longer it should burn brightest at the last. An expert, he was promptly accepted and hastened to France. After some months of unremitting labor he was resting at a hotel in Paris when he heard the alarm sounding an air raid. Going to the window he was amazed to see an airplane falling rapidly till it crashed to earth in the vicinity of the hotel. A French plane had met with an accident. Used to tragedy as he was, yet he felt unable to move until the repeated summons of the telephone urged him. He hastened down, knelt among the broken and unconscious airmen who had been brought into the courtyard of the hotel. He worked as he never had done before. The courtyard was filled with silent sympathy; in all the balconies above were many who prayed and hoped. Finally the work was done. "They have a chance," whispered the exhausted physician. Then he looked up in amazement at the silent multitude to whom he gave a smile of encouragement. When he stood upon his feet, a white-haired man stepped forward saying, "Mon-sieur, I thank you for France." It was the President of the Republic. Not long before his own death after returning home, he received a photograph of two airmen back in their plane, flying for France and for God.

On the place of that train wreck where Carroll gave up his life, I am sure that those who were there would say the same, "I thank you for France." But like the physician, Carroll, corporal as he was, has been promoted. "A good soldier of Jesus Christ" has been called to higher service. Long ago in a class the great teacher put the question, "What passage of Scripture is best able to allay sorrow?" One said, "He shall wipe away all tears from their eyes." Another, "They shall sorrow no more." The youngest in the class, Thomas A. Kempis, known the world over as the author of "The Imitation of Christ," said, "His servants shall serve Him." And that is Carroll's promotion. Serving the Great Commander, looking up on His face, having "His name written" not on a tombstone, but "upon his forehead." That's the best and biggest thing yet. There is nothing greater, nothing more worth while. In this we take courage, get inspiration, and are challenged as never before to live faithful.

There are fewer eggs in cold storage in the country now by over 10 per cent than a year ago. The movement of eggs from storage for consumption purposes began nearly a month earlier this year than usual. This condition should be a special incentive to every poultry producer to work faithfully for good production in the early winter.

FORMER SHERIFF
A. R. ANDERSON NOW
ENDORSES TANLAC

Prominent Houston Man Says "Money
Could Not Buy the Good It Has Done Me"

"Money could not buy the good Tanlac has done me, and I gladly recommend it for what it has done in my case," said Hon. Archie R. Anderson, of Houston, ex-sheriff of Harris County, recently.

Mr. Anderson needs no introduction to the people of Texas, as he is unquestionably, not only one of the best known, but one of the most popular men that ever held public office in "The Lone Star" state. After serving as Deputy Sheriff of Harris County for twelve years, Mr. Anderson was elected chief of police of the city of Houston. He had occupied this office only a short time when the Sheriff of Harris County died. Mr. Anderson's friends persuaded him to make the race for the unexpired term of Sheriff to which he was easily elected. He was honored with re-election several different times and served the people in this important office for fifteen consecutive years. Four years ago Mr. Anderson declined re-election and retired to private life. He cast his lot among the people of Houston and is a large property owner and foremost citizen of this interesting and prosperous city.

"I was in a run-down condition," continued Mr. Anderson, "and had no appetite at all. I could hardly sleep at night and never felt like getting up in the mornings. I was so tired. I had the worst form of indigestion, suffered all the time from gas on my stomach and was continually belching up undigested food. I had to take my coffee without sugar, as when I drank it with sugar, I would get belch for hours. I would be bloated and swell up like I was poisoned and suffered with neuralgic pains of the worst sort, and nothing seemed to help me only in a temporary way. I just can't tell you how I did suffer for the past four years and up to the time I began taking Tanlac, a few weeks ago.

"When I read the testimonials of some who had been relieved of troubles like mine I just felt I couldn't make a mistake by taking Tanlac and it has done even more for me than I had expected. I began to feel better after taking my first bottle and have just now started on my third and I'm a different man already. I sleep like a log now and eat just any and everything I want without the slightest discomfort afterwards. I am glad to endorse Tanlac because it does the work and I'm telling all my friends just what I'm telling you. I never felt better in my life than I do since taking Tanlac. I am willing for you to publish my statement and let every suffering person who may wish, benefit by my experience with this great medicine."

Tanlac is sold in Santa Ana by Rowley Drug Co., in Fullerton by G. W. Finch, in La Habra by R. H. Hilbert, in Huntington Beach by Rigdon's Pharmacy, in Orange by Dittmer's Mission Pharmacy, and in Placentia by A. J. Robinson, and in Tustin by Tustin Pharmacy.—Advertisement.

FIRST BIG SING BRYAN'S DRINK WILL BE HELD TO BE MADE BY WEDNESDAY ED. UTT IN NIGHT TUSTIN

Community Will Join In Community Singing at Birch Park

The first of the community singing to be held at Birch Park during the fourth Liberty Loan drive will be held this week on Wednesday instead of Tuesday night. Hereafter, they will be held on Tuesday nights. The change in the program this week is because of the registration of men between 18 and 45 on Thursday.

The program will start at 7:30 and will open with the singing of the "Star Spangled Banner." Everybody will be asked to join in the number, as well as in all numbers except the solos. Everybody is in this war and therefore everybody is going to be invited to join.

One of the features of the program will be the singing of a chorus written by Mrs. Joe Tillotson of this city, who has a son in the army, and which will be led by Prof. Harry Garstang.

Judge Thomas has supplied three speakers from outside the city to deliver the addresses. All are strong speakers and will discuss points of particular interest in connection with the draft and other war activities.

The meeting is to be a big home affair and everyone in Santa Ana is not only invited but is expected to be present to join in the demonstration and singing.

Opening with the "Star Spangled Banner," the singing will close with "Auld Lang Syne." In addition to the chorus numbers mentioned, there will be solos, and other songs in which the public may join. Among the soloists will be Mrs. H. M. Sammis, who will sing "Your Flag and My Flag," and Jas. Nickolls, whose number will be "To the Front" (Adams).

"Our Soldier Boys" is the title of the song Mrs. Tillotson has composed. It is as follows:

Oh where are our wandering boys tonight,
Whose sacrifice none can know?
With spirits aye, they drill all the day,
Their brave hearts with service aglow.

(CHORUS)
Are we helping our wandering boys tonight?
Our boys with their souls so brave,
There is danger afar, to Liberty's star
Which they offer their lives to save.

(CHORUS)
Are we loving our wandering boys tonight?
Our boys with their hearts so true,
Their eyes are raised to the flag, God be praised,
As they march 'neath the Red, White and Blue.

(CHORUS)
Do we mean to give, that the world may live
And Liberty be our share?
Do we hear the cry, "A Bond to buy!"
Are we heeding a nation's prayer?

(CHORUS)
Where are our boys tonight, O where are our boys tonight?
They're off and away with the U. S. A.
Are we backing our boys tonight?

Fame of Neighboring City Will Be Increased By Product

"Say, Ed, that's better stuff than Welch's."

And from that little remark by a friend, Ed Utt of Tustin is starting what might develop into a big enterprise in Tustin—the making of grape juice. Utt has a way of putting over things that he attempts, and the fact that he has gone into the development of this business means that Tustin and Utt's fame some day are going to reach many homes in the United States.

"Home Maid Grape Juice" is the name Utt has given to the liquid that Bryan made more or less famous by his attempt to make it the popular beverage at White House functions while he was secretary of state. Utt has an acre of Concord and Isabella grapes growing at Lemon Heights and last year he put up a number of quarts of juice. He gave it to some of his friends, who complimented him on its fine flavor, and who declared that it had a "twang" that didn't obtain in Welch's. That set Utt to thinking and his "thunks" ended in his decision to put it up in a commercial way.

While in the East last year, he visited a number of grape juice manufacturing places and gained information of value in developing his own plans.

This year he has between 3000 and 4000 quarts of juice and is going to distribute it in Santa Ana. He will handle it through dealers and direct to family trade, always protecting the dealers on the price. He has put up some pints and in smaller quantities to meet the demand of the soda fountain trade. His principal efforts this year, however, will be largely to the cultivating of family trade. He has fixed the price on a case of a dozen quart bottles at $4, with a refund of $1 upon return of the case and empty bottles.

Utt has established a kitchen at his home place in Tustin with about a dozen gas plates—a laboratory, as it were. He is starting in on a small scale and will continue with such facilities until he can develop a larger vineyard and establish a demand for his product. He will plant thirty acres of vines this year, and within three or four years the acreage should produce enough grapes to warrant expansion of his factory equipment.

"The demand for grape juice has grown very rapidly in the past few years," said Mr. Utt, in discussing his new enterprise, "and I can see a big field for the product. Of course, to make it successful, the product has got to be good. I believe I have discovered the secret of the manufacture of a juice that will create a demand wherever it is sampled and if the project meets with my expectations, I will in time put in a plant that will handle a large quantity of juice."

Labels are now being made for use on the bottled product. The business will be operated under the name of the Utt Juice Company, with Tustin being credited as the home of the company and the place of manufacture.

The region along the north and northeast coasts of Honduras is one of the great turtle grounds of the world. From March to September they inhabit the small sandy keys by the thousands, while during the remainder of the year a plentiful supply may be caught in the adjacent waters. While all varieties of turtles are used extensively for food, the meat of the green turtle is the most popular. This finds a ready sale at all times in different parts of the world.

Rev. Mr. Clifford Plain "Doc" To Pals In Fighting Marines

REV. JOHN H. CLIFFORD
"Doc"

PARIS, July 26.—The marines of one of the first-line regiments call him Doc. As they went against the enemy in the glorious fighting in the first few days of Summer he went with them. And when more than one wounded marine woke up in hospital he asked straightway:

"How's Doc? Did he come through all right?"

That's how they feel about the Doc. What's more, they are very proud of him. For when the fight was hottest he helped drag a stretcher across a shell-swept field to bring back their colonel, who was lying in an exposed trench, his shoulder shattered by machine gun fire.

He did it, too, while his left leg was numb from shell shock and he could hardly look at his left hand for the pain that was in it. But wouldn't any of the marines have done a similar act for him? That's how he feels about it.

THE "DOC" A PREACHER

At home the Doc is the Rev. John H. Clifford. Till last Fall he was pastor of the First Baptist Church of Tucson, Ariz. He left the church to go to France for the Y. M. C. A., and since last December he has been working with the American troops up and down the western front. Most of the time he has spent with the marines.

In fact, he is a marine. His election was unanimous, and in a way peculiar to the troops who are always ready for trouble when trouble comes. Waking from a needed nap one afternoon he couldn't find his coat and cap. A prank, he thought, and he walked out to get the air. When he returned his coat and cap were waiting for him.

On the cap had been sewn the marine insignia. The army buttons on his coat had become marine buttons. At that night the major noticed the changes and said:

"One of us now, eh Padre?"

Wherever the marines of his special battalion have moved since that election he has moved. During the latter part of May, when they started for the thick of the fighting in the region of the Marne, he slung his pack and marched with them. His billet was in a French village, toward which the Germans were driving.

Arrival, of course, was at night. That next afternoon he and the battalion dentist were walking along the main street of the village, between the sick bay and headquarters. Then came the

THEIR COLONEL SHOT

He was nearly to headquarters when a marine came running down the street with the word that the colonel had been shot and was lying in a trench across a stubble field just beyond the village. The doctor was with him and in urgent need of help.

Shouting to another marine, the Doc ran over to the sick bay, grabbed a stretcher and started in the direction in which the courier had pointed. It was at least three hundred yards across the field. Snipers were plentiful, and shells were dropping all about. Down on their stomachs went the Doc and the marine. Pushing the stretcher ahead, they wriggled and crawled through the stubble to the trench.

They found the colonel with the doctor and the colonel's orderly. The colonel was weak from loss of blood. The doctor said that they must get him out as soon as possible. But the shells were coming too fast and the snipers' bullets were whistling too ominously for an immediate getaway.

Shrapnel, also, was falling in the trench. The orderly put himself between his colonel and the enemy fire.

DOC HANGS ON BRAVELY

And so they waited, and waited, one hour, two hours. The doctor looked at his watch—it was after eight o'clock.

"Guess we'd better make the break," he said.

They got the colonel on the stretcher and started. Half way across the field the Doc's leg went back on him and he had to let go his hold on the stretcher. But he took hold again in a minute or two and hung on until the colonel was comfortable in a bed in the sick bay.

After that the Doc wasn't exactly sure what happened. He thought he was going to stay with the marines, but when he got out of the camion in which he had been invited to ride by his major he was in front of a hotel in Paris.

"I didn't want to come back," he told an interviewer. "I wanted to stay with my battalion. But they told me it's rather badly shot up and they guessed I'd better wait a while until it's reformed and ready for action again."

He fumbled in his pocket and drew out a shrapnel bullet, slightly flattened on one side.

"That struck between the colonel and his orderly while we were in the trench," he said. "It hit a stone, bounced and fell a short distance away. I picked it up, and whenever I show it I think of the orderly—a brave, manly fellow—who was killed by a piece of shell which struck him in the side and exploded the cartridges he was carrying."

He wouldn't admit it, but there is no doubt that he will think also of how he proved himself a full-fledged marine. And he knows that he will never be allowed to lose his nickname, Doc.

The American Y. M. C. A.

(By Rev. G. A. Francis, Chairman of the Orange County Y. M. C. A. Recruiting Committee.)

These strenuous days of severe testing on the overseas western front are trying out the mettle of not only the soldier boys but also the merit of the Y. M. C. A. men. It is just such a time that makes the demands for revision of the rules governing enlistment imperative.

The age limit has been drawn definitely for "Y" secretaries at 35 and 50 years of age, so that practically none can pass either above or below but must come between these two numbers. The new draft has fixed the lower number at 35, while the question of physical endurance has made the half-century limit an absolute necessity.

A new call is being made for managers and mechanics. The automobile man who knows the machine from the starter throughout, and who when the machine is out of order, knows what is the matter and how to correct it, who knows how to drive the machine, whether it is a "Tin Lizzie" or a ten-ton truck, he is the king-pin man today in the Y. M. C. A. mechanical work. Such men are needed, and a large group of them could be used to great advantage at present.

The recreational call is still sounding. The athletic is a big feature in the life of the soldier, if he is to be kept in fine form for real fighting. He must have the athletic training. Here is another door of access to this service which should have a generous supply of applicants.

Of course those who are in the draft age up to 36 are gladly excused from this phase of enlistment, but if a man is in the draft age and has an apparent physical disability by which he is exempt, he should try for the "Y" work.

We trust that within the next 30 days a large number of possible applicants will be forthcoming. Apply at room 5, Orange County Trust Building, Santa Ana, Cal.

CLOTHING STORE IS OUT $55 IN BAD CHECK DEAL

Check, Signed 'John Murphy' and Presented by 'Frank McDonald' Worthless

Another bad-check artist has been doing his work in Santa Ana and the Getz clothing store on East Fourth Street was again the victim, taking a worthless check for $55 and giving, besides goods, $21.35 in change.

A man, giving the name of Frank McDonald, purchased a suit of tan clothes, underwear and shoes on Saturday and presented the check, which was signed by John Murphy. It was written on the Farmers & Merchants bank and was returned to the store as worthless.

The bunco man is described as between 35 and 40 years of age, stout, smooth shaven and with one bad eye.

Present indications point to the highest prices for eating eggs this fall and winter we have ever dreamed of, and with the present work which is being undertaken to insure the holding of more local poultry exhibitions this coming winter, the breeder of standard quality will have a demand for all surplus fowls of quality and at good money-making prices.

CHAMBER OF COMMERCE PREPARING FOR MORE WORK IN THE FUTURE

Organization Absorbed At Directors Approve Membership Drive For the Coming Week

The Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce drive will open with many committees of representative and loyal citizens working to increase the membership. There are many people living in Santa Ana and vicinity who are not supporting its chief publicity organization but who, doubtless, will be glad of an opportunity of affiliating with the Chamber during the drive.

It is expected to at least double the present membership and to place the organization on a financial basis commensurate with the numerous increasing demands now made upon it for national and community service. Under the direction of the membership committee the drive will furnish an opportunity for those who have the interests of Santa Ana at heart to affiliate with its leading civic organization.

Incidentally it has been decided not to increase the dues at this time. While the Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce dues are the lowest of any organization in its class, it is thought better to keep interested a larger number of people at the lowest possible rate. New members are invited to join from every walk of life, the one requirement being that they are loyal to the community and nation.

The decision to increase the membership of the organization and to bring it to represent more generally the entire population has come after a careful survey of the present demands made upon it by the government since the war began and the probable greater burdens that will come with the reconstruction period following the war. With the entry of the United States into the great conflict for democracy, the Chamber of Commerce began a transformation. From a purely community building and public service organization its members began to assume the proportions of a popular unit in the mighty machinery which worked to the limit for the elimination of the Hun for all time. Today the organization finds itself the vital part in the "win the war" movement, but is insufficiently equipped to do the work demanded of it. The various loyal and earnest citizens volunteering for the membership campaign are not on a begging expedition, but are extending the privilege of membership in an organization that emphasizes their loyalty to their community and nation, and placing themselves in the government service in a way emphasized as most important at this time by our President.

Keen rivalry is expected among the various teams soliciting members. Every team will consist of three members and will have a selected list of non-members to visit. It is gratifying to note the loyal spirit of the men who will do this work. When it is considered that they are very busy men, in fact the busiest in the city, and that they are devoting their time and energy to the cause, one cannot help feeling that the city must appreciate the bigness of the work ahead of the Chamber and assist in every way possible.

The Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce has not had a membership drive for over seven years. As officers and directors, we believe there are many residents who will be glad to know of the work the Chamber is doing and take advantage of a membership drive to affiliate with such a public service organization. "Co-operative activity and systematized organization are the watchwords of success under all conditions."

The Santa Ana Chamber of Commerce has supported every step forward in the city's progress. It stands pledged to help win the war. It stands ready to take advantage of the opportunities that will be presented after the war. It must be prepared to take its part in the reconstruction period following the war and the necessary redistribution of trade.

Believing that Santa Ana should be prepared through its Chamber of Commerce, we ask every loyal citizen to assist in the preparedness program by his support in the membership drive and take an active part in building a greater Santa Ana.

The salary of the President remained at $25,000 from the administration of Washington to President Grant's second term in 1872. At that time it was increased to $50,000, and in the administration of President Taft to $75,000, where it remained. He has, besides, an allowance of $25,000 a year for traveling expenses, which he does not have to account for.

STOFFEL IS FIRST ANAHEIM BOY TO GIVE HIS LIFE

Died on July 28th From Wounds Received In Action

ANAHEIM, Sept. 9.—Peter L. Stoffel, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lambert Stoffel, is the first Anaheim boy to make the supreme sacrifice in Uncle Sam's service. Following is the telegram from the war department received Mrs. P. Stoffel:

"Deeply regret to inform you that Private Peter Stoffel, Inf. division died July 28 from wounds received in action."

"Acting Adj. Gen. September 19, 1917, for Camp Levee Wash., where he was given a 6 months' training and sent with a contingent from there to France. He has been in France for about eight months and was in the infantry."

About two weeks ago his mother received a letter from him saying he had been wounded and was in the hospital but thought he would recover and be back in the fray soon. He asked that they send him some money.

Mrs. Stoffel said that she thought that her son had died of the wound mentioned in his letter, although it did not know but that he had returned to the front and was killed outright. Stoffel was about 24 years of age and before entering the service helped his father on the ranch.

SHOULD I ASK FOR EXEMPTION?
Editor Register.—I desire to submit a statement and a question which I wish you would publish, together with your opinion, and perhaps ask for opinions. I know your ruling on anonymous letters, but I believe this is an exception. I believe hundreds of men are pondering the question: Shall I or shall I not ask for exemption? And I would rather have the question discussed without disclosing my identity. I do not want the individual considered.

We men under 46 are at the forks of the trail. I believe that I am a fair sample of the majority of men and healthy, will make a good soldier. And my inclinations are to waive claims for exemption and be a soldier. But I am raising a family; I have property which is not entirely paid for; I have other small business interests which would suffer should I leave them. The members of my family are strong and vigorous. If they should devote their time to self-support they could get along nicely, but it would mean curtailment of the children's schooling.

Briefly I have set forth my financial and family condition. Should I or should I not ask for exemption?
Will you kindly state, through your columns, your opinion? It will be appreciated by QUITE A. BUNCH.

Of course, it is right and proper for the foregoing letter to be submitted and published anonymously.

And the answer to the question it contains is easy.

Let each man seek the answer in his own heart. Let him honestly, sincerely, courageously ask and answer the question: "Where can I render the highest and best service to my country—not merely for the time being but for all time—at home or in the army?"

When a man answers that question, conscious that his God is listening and that his wife's eyes are looking at him—at his real self—through the windows of his soul—when he has thus answered that question, and, having thus answered it, feels at peace with his own conscience, he is all right, no matter what others may say or think.

But he must go a step further. If the draft board's decision in his case does not coincide with his own, he must cheerfully, in spirit and in truth, yield to the draft board's judgment. He must say to himself: "I must have made a mistake; at all events, if I was right and the draft board has made a mistake, the responsibility is theirs and not mine."

But, since the writer of the above letter has asked for our opinion and judgment of his own case, we do not hesitate to give it, honestly, humbly, patriotically.

We believe he should ask to be placed in a deferred classification. Until all men of military age without family obligations, or with lesser family obligations, are inducted into military service, this man's place is at home. Undoubtedly it is the purpose and policy of the government that such men shall be left at home—that is their place of service—until such time as they shall be more urgently needed in the army.

When that time comes, these men will be called, and they will answer and they will be ready and willing to go. Not merely ready and willing in spirit, but, having put their houses in order, having arranged their affairs, having been faithful to the greater trust and obligation, perhaps to the crucifixion of their own temperamental inclinations, they can go forth to battle without fault or faltering.

MAKING AMERICANS

A new idea has been introduced into Americanization work in this state through a Y. W. C. A. lecture course on immigration. The lecturers were not native Americans. They were the foreign-born leaders of nine local national groups, Portuguese, Jewish, Scandinavian, Russian, Jugo-Slav, Greek, Japanese, Armenian and Italian. The speakers told the need of their immigrant followers for American ideals and education. They told also of the contributions their people were bringing to American life and civilization. As a result of that course of lectures an Americanization program was worked out that includes native-born citizens in its teaching.

Thirteen points were made. One asked that immigrant leaders of broad sympathies be called upon to lecture in our public institutions, to bring before Americans the fine things the immigrant races have to offer us. Another urged that the histories of these peoples be taught briefly, but sympathetically, in our public schools and that our magazines print good translations of the best articles in current publications of those other countries. A third suggested that Americans be taught the grave difficulties the immigrant has to face in trying to replace his own native customs and ideals with those of America.

The best in the immigrant has always been endangered in making that transition, and our almost ignorant indifference to the religions and morals of those other countries has increased the dangers.

The program asks industrial leaders to realize the value of intelligent workers who can read and understand American signs and directions about the uses of tools and the aims of the business. It asks that foreign women be taught English in their homes as the children are in the schools and the men in the factories. It urges that the foreign-language press be used as a means of informing the immigrant population concerning museums, art galleries, libraries and all the artistic and educational facilities of the community in which they live and work.

The program is particularly interesting because nowhere does it consider Americanization work as the imposing of partially comprehended Americanisms on our immigrant peoples. Instead it is to be a work of mutual giving and receiving of the best from each group, American and foreign. This immigrant-made program deserves American consideration.

BUYERS AND FIGHTERS

Five bond holders for every fighter in France! That is the proportion which the National Liberty Loan Committee has set for its goal in the Fourth Liberty Loan campaign. War department plans call for an army of 5,000,000 in France during the year. To provide that army the ages for drafting men for service have been extended from 18 to 45 years of age.

Five million men will be needed to put the finishing touches upon Prussianism and Kaiserism. Even this high figure is not a drain upon our man power. Lloyd-George in a recent speech declared, that if America puts into the field proportionately as many men as Great Britain she will have 15,000,000 in Europe, armed for battle.

In the last Liberty Loan there were less than 17,000,000 bond purchasers.

One fighter for five bond holders is the figure set by the Liberty Loan authorities as the minimum for the Fourth Loan. That means there should be 25,000,000 purchasers if the country lives up to expectations.

The next loan should have nearer 50,000,000 subscribers than 25,000,000, or ten bond holders for each man in the field. America can achieve that result if the stay-at-homes are thoroughly awake.

When every American shoulders his own responsibility the figure can be attained with ease. There are few loyal Americans who cannot afford to buy at least one bond. There are none who can afford not to buy one.

Mr. Bond Buyer, help round up the delinquent, hesitant ones. Make it your business to buy, then sell a bond.

Observations

Josh Wise: I never heard anybody say, "She is a woman uv few words."

How much have you saved for bonds and Red Cross?

Uncle Sam is going to have the ships. It is up to you to save the wheat and meat to fill them.

The kaiser is reported to look thin and care-worn. Most any father would who has six sons to keep from getting hurt.

During August, Uncle Sam spent war money at the rate of $40,446 per minute. It would be well to give the Russians this information showing Uncle's seriousness.

Looks as if that old Hindenburg line had hung out in the weather long enough to acquire rotten spots.

Mr. Kitchen smiles pleasantly when saying that his committee places the excise taxes on the manufacturer and importer. We'll bet Claude two cents that the taxes won't stay placed there.

It is significant that Haywood and his immediate followers get severe sentences, without a murmur from the labor world. Honest labor thoroughly repudiates the I. W. W.

Treasury department reports there is a per capita circulation of $52.44. There may be on Saturday nights, but we don't believe there is that much on Monday morning.

A Japanese woman who has made $2,000,000 since the beginning of the war has been decorated by the mikado. We maintain that a woman with $2,000,000 needs no decorations—not even a new hat.

Ty Cobb is now a captain in the army. We'll bet money that if that fellow goes to the trenches, he'll have a fight.

One thing Germany isn't short of. It has all the coal it needs for its battleships.

"Boys," he said, "I know the Bible says if your enemy smites you on one cheek turn unto him the other, but it doesn't say that if he is about to try to stick a bayonet into you, you should turn your back on him. It also says love your enemies. I agree. I have seen many dead Huns and believe me, men, there is nothing easier to do than to love a dead Hun. But never forget to pray. It eases the mind and gives you confidence. But between prayers fight like hell!"—Wall Street Journal.

WARTIME ECONOMY
Mr. Benson went to New York to business, but lived in Brooklyn. Often he was not able to get home in time for dinner at night. He told his wife that he would phone her every day as to whether he could leave the office or not.
Mrs. Benson was of a very thrifty disposition, and the following was her solution of the problem: "Sam, if you find that you can't be home for dinner, phone me at exactly 6 o'clock. If the telephone rings at that hour, I'll know it is you and that you are not coming for dinner. I won't answer it, and you'll get your nickel back."—Ladies' Home Journal.

ESSENTIAL TO INDUSTRY
A young registrant, claiming exemption, was asked, "How many people are dependent on you?"
He replied: "Two, sah. Paw, he depends on me to find washin' for Maw; and Maw, she depends on me for to hunt wood-choppin' for Paw."—Argonaut.

"Yes'm," answered modest Johnny, "but I'd rather not, ma'am."—Ladies' Home Journal.

SIXTY PER CENT OIL MAN KILLED WHEN HIT BY SCANTLING

Fatal Accident on Standard-Murphy Lease Saturday Last

Another fatality through accident has occurred in the oil section in the north end of the county. Alert Terro died at the Anaheim sanitarium Saturday from injuries received about 9 o'clock that morning at Well No. 51, on the Standard-Murphy lease, where he was employed. He was working at a derrick, when a 2x4 scantling fell and hit him on the head. He was rushed to the sanitarium and died a few minutes after reaching there. He was 31 years of age and leaves a widow and a daughter of eight years. The coroner's jury, sitting in the afternoon, returned a verdict that death resulted from an unavoidable accident.

VACCINATION IS UP TO SCHOOL BOARD

City Health Officer Advises That State Law Be Enforced

If the recommendation of City Health Officer J. I. Clark is acted upon with favor by the board of education, every child reporting for school when the schools of the city open will have either to present a certificate of vaccination or a certificate declaring that the parent or guardian is opposed to vaccination and will not consent to it.

When the education board meets this evening it will have before it a communication from the city health officer advising that the state law be enforced, and with the communication will be a copy of the state law.

It is asserted that no child who presents one of these certificates can be excluded from school, unless an official certificate declaring that smallpox exists, and that a child or person attending school has been exposed, has been filed with the board of education by the health officer.

REGISTRATION DAY, SEPT. 12, IS MADE PUBLIC HOLIDAY

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 9.—From the governor's office the following proclamation declaring September 12 a public holiday and ordering saloons closed during draft registration has been issued:

PROCLAMATION
The President of the United States has fixed September 12, 1918, as the day upon which all men, between the ages of 18 and 45, who have not registered heretofore, shall register for the Selective Draft.

It is necessary in order to carry out said registration accurately and completely that the entire people devote themselves to that single purpose on the day designated.

Therefore, I, William D. Stephens, governor of the state of California, by virtue of the power and authority in me vested, do hereby proclaim Thursday, September 12, 1918, to be a public holiday.

I do hereby recommend to all municipal and county authorities having jurisdiction that they see to it that all saloons are closed on that day between the hours of 7 a. m. and 9 p. m.

In witness whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and caused the great seal of the state of California to be affixed this 7th day of September, 1918.

MUTINY OF AUSTRIAN SAILORS DESCRIBED

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 9.—The newspaper Volksrecht publishes the details of the mutinies of Austrian sailors at Pola and Sebenico.

At Sebenico in 1917 the sailors mutinied twice. Many officers were thrown overboard. At Pola in February, 1918, the sailors mutinied and killed one officer, wounding many others, including Admiral Hanz.

An infantry regiment ordered to quell the mutiny refused. Finally the sailors surrendered and fifty of them are awaiting trial.

HIGHER PRICES FOR VALENCIAS THE PAST WEEK

20 Cars Sent Out In September, About 13 Cars a Day In October, Estimated

The following is the week's citrus review as issued by the Los Angeles office of the Fruit World:

The light offerings of Valencia in all markets are being absorbed by the trade at record prices. The demand in all markets is active and prices are generally higher than a week ago. The New York market showed a gain of 25 cents per box on Thursday, the averages realized ranging from $8.40 for fruit from the Coquina district to $10.20 for Duarte-Monrovia fruit. The Boston market showed a range of $6.65 for fruit from the Whittier district to $9.10 for Orange county stock. St. Louis sold a straight car from Orange county at $6.25 average. Philadelphia sold at a range of $7.35 to $9.55 for Orange county fruit. Practically all sales now being made are within the range above quoted, showing the market in strong position.

September first estimates on the remaining supply of Valencias are being revised and in most districts show an increase over earlier figures. Latest figures now show between 1000 and 1100 cars of Valencias to go after September 1. September shipments are expected to run around 20 cars daily, leaving about thirteen cars daily for October, which will practically clean up the remaining Valencias by November 1.

F. O. B. quotations are on a basis of $7.50, with some of the less desirable fruit at $7.25.

Orders for Tulare county navels are reported as being booked at $5 per box, all sizes and grades, for shipments the first half of November. With the "8 to 1" maturity standard to be met most shippers feel that the booking of orders for specified early shipment is treading on dangerous ground, as it is impossible to determine this early just how the fruit will meet the sugar test.

Congestion on the Erie railroad, due to abnormally heavy receipts of deciduous fruits, has necessitated an embargo that is causing the holding up of all shipments at Hornell with the exception of cantaloupes which it is understood are being allowed to go through.

The market on lemons is decidedly easier and lower. The temperature in all eastern markets has ranged around 60 degrees and this fact together with the sugar restrictions is responsible for the lowering of lemon values.

California lemons are giving excellent satisfaction. The fruit, although reported old in many instances where cars have been out for a long period, show up in sound condition and it is this fact alone that is holding up the market at present values. The demand is practically nil and quotations a matter of what can be had for the fruit at destination.

A cargo of 41,000 boxes of foreign lemons sold on Wednesday that averaged $3.65 for Verdellis and $3 for Ricoppi Ripes. Another cargo of 45,000 boxes foreign lemons is reported in port. This cargo sailed the first of June and can hardly be expected to be in good condition after a journey of three months' duration.

REGISTRARS TO MEET TUESDAY NIGHT, COURT HOUSE

Final Instructions Will Be Given and Blanks Issued

The sixty-one registrars appointed to register men between 18 and 45 in the sixty-one precincts in exemption district No. 1 will meet in Judge West's court room at the court house tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock, to receive final instructions and blanks necessary for the registration on next Thursday. Registrars must provide ink, pen and blotters.

It is important that everyone selected for the service be in attendance. There will be many points to explain and none should fail to hear them. A complete understanding of what is to be done in all circumstances that might arise is necessary in order to avoid confusion and cause the board clerks extra time and effort.

From inquiries that have been coming into the Register office, it is evident that there are many within the registration age who do not know what precinct they are in. For the information of those who do not know the lines in their precinct, it might be said that it is not absolutely necessary that they register within the precinct, but it is the desire of the board that registrants register within the precinct wherever possible. By the registrars reporting within their district, it will make the work of checking very much easier.

Change in Registration Place

Registrars in Precinct 8 are notified that Ben Brown, registrar, has changed the place of registering from his residence at 712 East Fifth to 901 East Fourth, corner of Garfield. This was the location of the polls in the primary election.

Thirty Boys Accepted

Of the thirty-nine boys who left here for Camp Kearny last Thursday, thirty have passed the examination at camp and have been accepted. Acceptance cards for this number have been received by the local board. Reports on the remaining nine will probably be received within the next day or two, as they had not been examined when the other reports were forwarded.

County Surveyor's Force Picnic on the Sands of Newport Beach

The members of the County Surveyor's office and field force, with their families, enjoyed a seaside outing at Newport Beach Saturday afternoon, as guests of County Surveyor and Mrs. J. L. McBride and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Stearns.

The McBride cottage, "Munysunk," was used as headquarters and after invigorating surf bathing, everyone was ready for the beautiful wiener supper on the sands. Hot coffee and "smokes" were served at the cottage after the company had watched the interesting sport of the fishermen pulling in their big nets of fish.

Among those who joined in this pleasant "Saturday afternoon off" were Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Lockwood, Mr. and Mrs. George Starbuck, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. MacMullan, Mr. and Mrs. W. W. May and son John, Mrs. Arthur Gells, Mr. and Mrs. J. L. McBride and little daughter Thelma, and Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Stearns.

If you are able to smile and sing
When all your friends are away,
If you can take time to write to them
A couple of lines each day,
If you are ready to stand behind
The lines of our men in France,
If you will save every cent you have To purchase War Savings Stamps,
If you can forget your private wants
And give up sweetmeats and jam;
If you can do all these things, my friend,
You're the girl for Uncle Sam!

CHILDREN'S MEETING

Object Lesson Interests Little Folks In the Study of African Missions

A happy gathering of little folks was held Saturday afternoon at the home of Mrs. F. E. Farnsworth, where Miss Hester Covington and Miss Vena Jones interested them in the study of African missions.

The children are members of the Junior Missionary Society of the M. E. Church South and after a short devotional session missionary work in the jungles of Africa was brought to the children by an interesting object lesson. Miss Jones conducting this part of the service.

Late in the afternoon, Mrs. Farnsworth called the company into the dining room, where, around a pretty table centered by a mound of golden glow, they enjoyed refreshments of ice cream and cake.

Besides Miss Covington and Miss Jones, the company included Mary Fine, Letta and Ella Jo Covington, Marguerite Anderson, Cynthia Kervin, Olga and Louis Perenich, Edith Tedford, Evelyn Farnsworth and Edward O'Rear.

WAR-TIME WEDDING

Miss Whipple Becomes the Bride of Army Officer In New York City

One of the never-to-be-forgotten meetings of the N. M. U. Club was held yesterday afternoon at Orange County Park, where the club president, Mrs. Jack Palmer, had called the members together to hear "some very important news" and to celebrate it with a spread.

Curiosity almost caused a violation of the speed laws, for no hint of the object of the meeting could be gleaned, but as soon as all had gathered at a beautiful spot overlooking the lake the thunderbolt was launched—the announcement of the marriage of Miss Mary Whipple to Captain Louis Arthur Barton of the U. S. Engineer Corps, August 27th, in New York City.

The wedding bells crowned a life-long friendship although the decision for the sudden marriage was caused by Captain Barton's call to service overseas. The exciting details of the wedding were given in a letter from the bride, the ceremony having been arranged within Captain Barton's forty-eight hours' leave of absence. While invitations were being telegraphed to the close relatives, and the groom was choosing the lovely Tiffany wedding ring, the bride was hurriedly buying her trousseau and making a strenuous endeavor to locate Rev. J. A. Stevenson, who was reported to have preached at the Broadway Presbyterian church the preceding Sunday.

Much to the bride's regret, Dr. Stevenson could not be found so the Rev. Oliver Paul Barnhill of the Collegiate Presbyterian Church was waiting at the family residence, 1142 Madison avenue, New York City, when the bride and groom-to-be breathlessly alighted from their taxi just ten minutes before the wedding ceremony was performed.

Dr. Allen Whipple, a brother of the bride, was to give her into the keeping of the fortunate man of her choice and his wife had laid out her own lovely satin wedding gown and veil for her to don, while someone helped her put on her silver slippers.

With an exquisite shower bouquet of Cecile Brunner buds and orange blossoms, and the bride's tiny namesake, Mary Allen, bearing her train, the bride made a beautiful picture as she happily plighted her vow, as if the wedding had been carefully planned weeks before, all the time Miss Margaret Whipple playing strains of soft appropriate music.

After the wedding dinner, the bride and groom caught the 5:55 Limited to Baltimore just as it was moving out, and four days later, good-byes were said when Captain Barton brought his men to embark for service abroad.

Mrs. Barton will join her husband in Paris after the war, for a year's stay and upon their return to the United States they will divide their time between their home in Virginia and New York City, where Captain Barton, who is a Michigan University man, plans to open a consulting engineer's office.

The bride, a graduate of Oberlin College, was for several years one of Orange county's most successful kindergarten directors and only last summer resigned her position at Orange to become the Red Cross director at Fairfield, Connecticut. Her lovely character and sunny disposition have won countless Santa Ana friends who join her adoring kindergartners in wishing her a life-long honeymoon, after the war clouds have cleared away.

BURGLAR RAIDS JAP STORE ON E. FOURTH

The store of I. B. Seta & Son at 408 East Fourth was entered last night and a quantity of goods stolen. Entrance was effected through a rear window. Among the articles missed by the proprietors are three or four blue work shirts, six or seven pairs of blue bib overalls, two or three white shirts, nine or ten suits of underwear, one tan shirt and a coat and a pair of trousers.

NEWS IN BRIEF FORM

Loss of about $550 by fire was suffered by the Orange Contracting and Milling company this morning, with no insurance. Fire from a burning waste pile of sawdust communicated through dry weeds to a shed filled with lumber near the company's mill on North Lemon street, Orange, and much of it was destroyed before the fire department could extinguish the blaze.

Loading and unloading iron tends to develop more blisters on a fellow's hands than dispensing drugs—but it might be a whole lot worse—according to "Doc" Gramm, formerly of the White Cross drug store, and now shipyard employee. The ship workers were granted a holiday today and Gramm just had to come up and visit his old haunts.

National Guard members are reminded that they will report at the temporary armory at Third and Spurgeon streets this evening instead of the court house. Anyone desiring information about enlistment should apply at the old athletic club hall this evening at 7:30.

Today, Admission Day, was not celebrated in this city, except by the closing of the court house, city hall, post office and banks, the day being a legal holiday. California was admitted to the union in 1850 and is sixty-eight years old today.

A suit filed in the superior court at San Bernardino by Dr. W. A. Frago, owner of lot 784 in Ontario, demands $5000 damages from the county of San Bernardino for alleged injury to his citrus grove recently fumigated by the county horticultural commission to rid the trees of scale and other pests, says the Ontario Record.

St. John's parochial school of Orange opened the fall term today. The school faculty remains the same as last year: William Battermann, principal; Paul Hedder, William F. Meeske and J. M. Helmreich. The noteworthy feature of this year's opening is the total elimination of the German language from the school's course of study.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Waffle have taken over the Anaheim Produce Company store and will devote their entire attention to the courteous and efficient management of that fruit and vegetable market; and if courtesy and a willingness to serve efficiently and well is any criterion, the prediction that success is theirs is an absolutely safe one. Courteous, efficient service and fruits and vegetables might very well be adopted as their working slogan.—Anaheim Herald.

Dr. J. G. Kennedy, at the Bible Institute in Los Angeles Friday delivered his address, "The Christian in the Conflict," and received the greatest ovation of any of the speakers preceding him in the series of meetings being held. The address dealt with the duty of the Christian in the war and was printed a few days ago in the Register. There was a demand for its publication and distribution and T. C. Horton, superintendent of the Institute, was provided with a copy of the Register and the article will be published in pamphlet form for distribution all over the country.

A Ford touring car owned and driven by O. Durrell of 1012 West Chestnut rammed its nose into the side of a big Stutz owned and driven by John Awe of Tustin Saturday evening at the corner of Broadway and Third streets and the machine broke about even as to damage. Awe was driving south on Broadway and Durrell was driving east on Third and the latter car hit the former as it was making the turn at the corner.

Lieut. Ernest Clabaugh, recently returned from France to instruct recruits in latest allied war tactics and, now stationed at Camp Forrest, Ga., writes his father, J. H. Clabaugh, of Anaheim, that of the 250 men in his old company at Chateau Thierry, there were 160 casualties.

The Anaheim Union High School opens tomorrow. Students who enroll Tuesday will attend classes as usual and receive assignments. Wednesday, Thursday and Friday also will be registration days for those who cannot enter Tuesday, the office being open from 9 a. m. to 12 m. and from 1 p. m. to 4 p. m.

Dr. H. E. W. Barnes has just received word that his cousin, Clarence Munford, formerly of Des Moines, Iowa, had been killed in action.

The California National Bank has taken out a permit for repairs in its building to cost about $500. A partition will be removed and other office changes made.

UNNECESSARY FIRES
The Kaiser's fire bugs are busy in France and Belgium. They are working here, too, but they are being helped by careless Americans. Last year saw more than 1,000 preventable fires in the National forests of California. The Huns started some of these, but the careless camper, the tired tourist, the foolish fisherman, and the silent stockman caused three-fourths of them. The destruction of food, forage and forests will not win the war. Do your bit to help. Preach and practice care with fire.

DON'T BE DISPIRITED
SAYS GERMAN GENERAL
TO SOCIETY AT HOME

AMSTERDAM, Sept. 9.—Lecturing before a German society, General von Freytag-Loringhoven, deputy chief of the general staff, appealed to his hearers to keep up their spirits and not be too disappointed at war failures, according to Berlin despatches today.

"War is an uncertain business," said Loringhoven. "We must not expect too much, as was the case when unrestricted submarine warfare was introduced, as well as at the beginning of the spring offensive."

"The present check is not to be compared to past ones. All we have to do is to keep up our spirits. Our watchword is 'Victorious defense to a finish.'"

AMERICA URGED TO CONTINUE RUSHING OF SOLDIERS

Are Needed to Bring Early Victory and Lessen War's Cost in Men, Supplies

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Urging the necessity of continuing the rushing of American troops to France, Lord Milner, British minister of war, in reply to an inquiry today wrote the following letter to the United Press correspondent:

"You tell me that in certain circles in the United States the view is current that our present successes on the west front have made the necessity less urgent of hurrying over American troops to France and that America's war effort can now proceed at a more leisurely pace.

"I quite understand how this view may be held but I profoundly disagree with it. It seems to me that on the contrary the morale of our present successes is just the opposite. The remarkable achievement of the Allies since July 18 is of first importance, for it shows we can win the war. But most assuredly we will not win the war if we get the idea that we can afford to slacken our effort. This applies to every allied nation. It is the duty of the European allies to abate nothing of their energy and indeed to strive as if America were not behind them.

"America's strength—great as it is—can only be relied on to bring about a decision if it is added to the forces of the European allies and not substituted for them.

"I do not think I could name the reasons why our pressure, both military and economic, must not be abated for one instant.

"From a military point of view the successes are of no value unless they are followed up, and to reap the fruits of them the enemy must be given no rest. Weakening of his civilian, as well as his military, morale depends on unceasing pressure.

"Again we cannot permit Germany to recruit her strength by exploiting her occupied territories in the east, and the only way of preventing such recruiting is to allow her no leisure. Lastly, it is of vital importance to allied belligerents to bring the war to an end at the earliest possible date with a view to conserving a reasonable balance of resources for the work of reconstruction.

"Surely every military man must agree to win an early victory is better than a languid and protracted campaign. Costs in both men and money will be increased and not lessened by delay."

SOLDIER AT CAMP
FREMONT SUICIDES

CAMP FREMONT, Cal., Sept. 9.—Fearing to face the Germans in battle, Henry J. Arnhart, a selective service recruit who has been stationed at Camp Fremont for the last few days, is dead today. His body was found hanging from a tree within the camp. The hanging was witnessed by several comrades who rushed to take him down, but too late to save his life.

He was 24 years of age and according to his companions who made the trip from Filer, Idaho, with him, he had told them he was afraid of war and although he desired to be a soldier he was afraid he could not qualify.

IT TAKES TIME TO FORM IRRIGATION DISTRICTS NOW

HARPER, Sept. 6.—It takes time to form an irrigation district under the California law, as both the Newport Mesa and Newport Heights district are finding out. Several months have passed since the farmers' organization started and yet it is not completed and the well must be sunk, the pipes laid and the machinery installed before there will be any water in sight. If either district gets in shape to furnish water for next summer there will need be some hustling done.

Visits Her Father

Vesta Quinn, three and a half years old, went to Phoenix, Ariz., last Friday to stay with her father, E. L. Quinn, a couple of weeks. Mr. Quinn has a job there with a sheet metal house.

W. L. Finch went to Los Angeles last Monday to visit his son, Clifford Finch, and his brother, Ed Finch, returning Tuesday.

E. C. Kersey spent several days the first of the week in Los Angeles attending Labor Day festivities and also as a member of what is known as the Society of Cranks, who held a convention in Los Angeles.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. George Page and Mr. and Mrs. Clark enjoyed an outing and picnic at Orange County Park last Sunday. Mr. Thompson thinks that some of the trees in that magnificent park must have been pretty good sized sprouts when Columbus discovered America.

School Opens on Monday

The Harper-Fairview school will open on next Monday, September 9, with Miss Fisher as principal and Miss Snapp and Miss Rodier as assistant teachers. The school will be larger than ever before and a prosperous term is anticipated.

Miss Martha Reed of Lindsey is visiting Mrs. E. A. Spaulding. They were at one time chums as teachers in the schools of Phoenix, Ariz.

Mr. and Mrs. George Huntington, with their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Rec Stansbury, of Sierra Madre, visited the latter's big ranch south of Laguna, Monday.

George Horn and wife, came down from Los Angeles Sunday to visit his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Horn. George Horn is a commercial salesman and his house will send him to Mexico soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Garston of Oklahoma City, George Wood and his sister, Ruby Wood, of Pasadena, and Miss Gertrude Bradley of Los Angeles were guests at the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. David Armstrong over Sunday.

Mrs. Donner and little daughter and Miss Grimm, from Nebraska, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Woodrough this week. The ladies took a voyage to Catalina on Wednesday.

Mrs. Mellett and Miss Jennie Cleg-horn went to Downey last week, returning Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Young went to Los Angeles on Wednesday. A cousin of Mr. Young was injured in an automobile accident.

Tomatoes and Chilis Good
Dan Nehimoto, a Japanese gardener in this neighborhood, reports a good crop of tomatoes with a prevailing price of $20 per ton. He will ship to Los Angeles by freight cars at a cost of $250 per ton. He says chili peppers are also a good crop, although the water supply has been scant. This is the first season that the Japanese have operated much in this section and they certainly make the fields look productive.

Mr. and Mrs. Shumate of Los Angeles, formerly of Harper, have taken a cottage at Newport Beach for a week's vacation. Mrs. Shumate is a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joel Wilson.

Ernest Smith, brother of Mrs. Joel Wilson, with his family, are here on a short visit. They will then return to their home in Phoenix, Ariz.

Mr. Gardner's daughter lately arrived from New York to attend her mother, who is very ill.

Harry Snow of Santa Ana, with his family, spent Sunday in Harper with Mrs. Snow's father and mother, the Kings.

WHEW! SKUNK VISITS KITCHEN ON MESA SATURDAY NIGHT

Steel Trap First Gets Gray Cat, Then Skunk; Trusty Shot Gun Does the Rest

HARPER, Sept. 5.—A Newport Heights family had a genuine thrill last Saturday night on returning home near midnight from the Red Cross ball given at the Newport hotel. Entering the house through the back screen porch, into the kitchen, the wife, preceding her husband in the dark, had lighted a lamp and left it on the kitchen table, she passing into the front room. Her husband followed, after housing the auto, and as he stepped into the open kitchen door saw a skunk near the wood box. After the thrill had bent his spinal column he imparted the news to his wife, who must have passed very near the skunk on entering the house. She went up to the ceiling in her astonishment. There was no drive made at all. They closed all the doors leading to other parts of the house and left open the kitchen and screen porch doors and waited for a vacation.

Next morning all was clear in the house, but a suspicious hole under the back door step indicated the skunk's headquarters. Next evening the animal was seen trying to enter at the same place it had entered before but the small hole had been stopped up. On Monday the odor that welled up through the cracks in the broad doorstep was the cause of much foreboding. Whew! What could be done? At dusk, the time of the prowler's usual going forth for game, a steel trap, baited with fifty-cent bacon, was set before the hole. On Tuesday morning the trap with the timber attached was gone and was not found until evening when about one hundred yards away, near a neighbor's house, the timber to which the trap chain was fastened was discovered partly drawn under a pile of lumber. "Hurrah!" the man shouted; "here is the poacher." With his shotgun in hand, he called his wife to bring the long-handled rake with which to pull out trap and skunk, as he felt confident would be the case. She was game and pulled hard for the prize, but, good heavens, it was a big gray cat with the toes of one of its fore feet in the trap. The shotgun was laid down and with a board the trap spring was lowered. So poor pussy escaped and went out of sight under the lumber. The trap was reset that evening in the same place and just before bed time the odor from that side of the house was very great. By lamp light the skunk could be seen six feet from the back door with its feet caught fast. The doors were opened wide, the wife held the lamp and the old shotgun did the rest in closing the tragically thrilling experience.

Who killed the skunk? They say Frank L. Dodge was the man. Mrs. Dodge, however, doesn't want to be included in the story, so we won't mention her name.

HELP WITH THE WAR

Preventable fires in California National forests destroyed over $150,000 worth of property, and cost more than $84,000 to put out. This was in the one year 1917. All these fires were man-caused and could have been prevented. Did they help win the war? Did they help our boys in France? Don't let this occur again. Preach and practice care with fire, and help to save food, forage and forests.

The Rev. Philip Cook of Chicago was one of the party of Young Men's Christian Association workers recently torpedoed in mid-Atlantic. As soon as he could reach a cable office he sent this unique message to his wife: "Acts xxvii, 41-44." The brief reference is the vivid account of the shipwreck suffered by the Apostle Paul, the conclusion of which is the sentence, "And so it came to pass that they escaped all safe to land."

Over 18, Under 46, Even Just One Day, Men Must Register September 12

WASHINGTON, Sept. 7.—Pro-vest Marshal General Crowder has issued a statement designed to clear up the uncertainty which seems to exist among some of the older men involved in the extension in the draft ages to include men between 18 and 45. In it he says:

"A man is considered to be included within the new age limits unless on or before registration day, September 12, he has reached his forty-sixth birthday. If his age is 45 years and 364 days on September 12, he must register."

"The minimum age limit of 18 years on the other hand, is intended to include any young man who, on or before September 12, shall have reached his eighteenth birthday."

PRETTY GIRL ELEPHANT TRAINER MADE "USELESS" USEFUL TO CIRCUS

Formerly Stubborn Pachyderm and Miss Hines, His Conqueror.

They named him "Useless" after his first season with the circus. That was eight years ago and in spite of the fact that the big elephant does the best tricks in the Barnum & Bailey show the name sticks to him.

"Useless" was one of a $50,000 batch of elephants brought to this country for the Barnum & Bailey organization, when it was found necessary to replenish the herds. The green animals were turned over to Harry Mooney, elephant expert, and soon they were doing tricks and heavy pulling and tugging—all but "Useless." He wouldn't work and he wouldn't learn tricks. Mooney didn't know whether he was lazy or just stubborn. For three years he toiled not, neither did he spin, and all he did for his board and lodging was to permit delighted children to feed him peanuts besides disposing of his three bales of hay and fifty gallons of water every day. He was ornamental and expensive.

When the big show comes to Santa Ana, Friday, September 20, "Useless" will be seen to do wonderful tricks because he has met his Nemesis in the form of a pretty girl who applied methods in teaching him that he could not resist.

Miss Albertina Hines is the girl. When she went to the circus winter quarters in Bridgeport, Conn., to teach new tricks to the elephants, the stubbornness of "Useless" was a direct challenge to her ability as a trainer. He was first on her list. Being wise in the ways of mankind, she decided to appeal to the animal through his stomach. All elephants are passionately fond of bread and cakes, but they get very little of it. Accordingly one morning Miss Hines had "Useless" brought into the ring barn at winter quarters and attempted to make him perform some simple tricks. First, however, she fed him some morsels of spiced cake. The delicacy appealed to "Useless" and he readily went through his paces in the hope of receiving more cake. To the surprise of the veteran elephant trainers around the Barnum & Bailey quarters, within a few days Miss Hines had "Useless" literally crazy about spiced cake and her. He would obey her slightest command, and by the time the circus was ready to open its season he was one of the best performers in the herd.

On washday, use Fels-Naptha Soap in the Fels-Naptha way.

Because it makes boiling water unnecessary, it saves the extra coal or gas you need for boiling water.

It is economical to buy Fels-Naptha when in fuel alone you save 15 to 25c on washday.

BOCHES FALLING BACK TO THEIR OLD TRENCHES ALONG SOMME

British Can Keep Secrets, and Nobody Knows What Their Next Move Will Be

BY LOWELL MELLETT
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
WITH THE BRITISH ARMIES IN FRANCE, Sept. 9.—The line of old British troops north of the Somme served the German rear guard fighters to good purpose today. Built by the British when they settled down facing the Hindenburg line, the trenches served to delay but not stop the German steam roller last spring. It is likewise improbable that the Germans will do more than hesitate in these defenses before falling back to their own original positions.

Nobody knows what the next British move will be. There are no indications of what is forthcoming any more than there were at the beginning of the present campaign. As an indication of the manner in which battle plans are kept secret, it is now permissible to relate an incident concerning the Canadian corps' smashing blow before Amiens. On the fingers of one hand it is possible to enumerate the persons within the corps to whom information of the impending attack was passed. These were assigned to do all the preliminary work, characterizing the operation as the "L. C. scheme." The impression was general among officers of high rank that the plans of the corps contemplated a movement from Arras, where the troops were stationed, or farther northward—perhaps against Mount Kemmel. Instead the night before the attack the troops were suddenly shifted to Amiens. They went to the battle under an inspiration which originated mysteriously and spread rapidly in the cry of "Remember the Llandovery Castle." Then officers who had been working on the "L. C. scheme" recognized where the initials came from.

A German intelligence service report recently obtained contains comment on the British being "past masters at concealing their intentions."
Letters found on prisoners contain revelations of the enemy's moral.

"It's high time the war came to an end," wrote an aviator after his thirty-fourth battle flight. Otherwise, he said, he would soon be appearing in the ranks of the infantry as all aviation parks and commands were being combed for available infantry material.

A trooper of the Ninth Hussar wrote:

"Let's hope we soon get out of this mess. We can't do much with our cavalry division because it's run away if it gets too much of it."

STRIKING POWER OF BRITISH AND FRENCH SHIFTED

By J. W. T. MASON
(United Press War Expert)
NEW YORK, Sept. 9.—The center of attack now being dealt by Marshal Foch against the German front for the first time embraces concerted drives by the French and British armies for a common object. Field Marshal Haig's operations east of Peronne are for the purpose of encompassing St. Quentin from the north, while the French advance in the Ham section is directed against St. Quentin from the south. The British striking power has thus shifted southward from the Cambrai area for the time being in keeping with the new offensive strength which the French have moved northward from Noyon.

Co-operation by immediate contact of the operating British and French armies has not previously been ordered by Field Marshal Foch on the present scale of fighting. It seems apparent that Von Hindenburg is now preparing to move his line backward to the St. Quentin sector as his next considerable line of retreat, and Marshal Foch is bent on disorganizing this movement as much as possible.

The German front southwest of St.
Quentin has begun to take a pocket formation because of the British successes before Cambrai and the French progress toward La Fere.
These two operations may be described as end plays which have curved the enemy's line and have made a hollow in the center opposite St. Quentin. Any considerable extension of the Cambrai and La Fere ends will produce a salient west of St.
Quentin similar to his ill-fated Marne pocket.

Therefore the German general staff must strengthen the ends with new reserves and at the same time try to move the center eastward in order to straighten the line. It is a dangerous operation, with the British and French armies attacking from what are practically flanking directions.
Yet Von Hindenburg must accept this risk for there is no other way to accumulate new reserves than by reducing his battle-front mileage.

The moral effect on the German soldiers of the British and French forces co-operating to drive the Germans back on St. Quentin will be very pronounced. It was at this point less than six months ago that the Germans broke through the Allied front when Von Hindenburg made his bloody effort to win the war by the reckless slaughter of his own man power. The present developments following the unsuccessful enterprise must strike

FRENCH AND BRITISH ARE CLOSING IN ON IMPORTANT TOWNS

21. At the town of Le Hamel on the Croizat canal the French are only five miles from St. Quentin.

On the northern end of the active battle line, having taken Havincourt wood, the British are entering the old Cambrai battlefield, where General Byng made his smash for that city last November.

German artillery fire heavier than at any time within recent weeks is reported from the line west of Rheims.
(This takes in the American front north of the Vesle.)

The London Times learned that since July 18, when the counter offensive started, the Allies have captured 150,000 prisoners. The Rotterdam correspondent of the Telegraf in dispatches today estimated that 50,000
Germans had deserted.

LONDON, Sept. 9.—Artillery fighting on the Arras-Cambrai road and at several other places on the front was reported today by Field Marshal Haig.
"A hostile raiding party was successfully repulsed last night north of Arleux (between Cambrai and Douai)," the statement said. "With the exception of artillery activities in different localities being mutual, particularly in the neighborhood of the Arras-Cambrai road and in the La Bazzes can-and Ypres sectors, there is nothing further to report."

SUBMARINES PROVEN UNSUCCESSFUL IN TRANSPORT QUEST

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The navy for some weeks past has been acting on the presumption that Germany would make a big U-boat drive against American transports. Secretary of the Navy Daniels admitted today. This course, while not based on official information, resulted from the logical conclusion that Germany would do her utmost to attack transports when she saw America's army growing enormously.

Convoys have been strengthened and other anti-submarine measures increased. Daniels declared this new fare is regarded as the futile effort to sink the Mount Vernon. Advice at hand today show 35 dead, though it had been supposed the entire crew escaped. Senator James Hamilton, Lewis, Illinois, was aboard the transport homeward bound but was unscathed.

The Mount Vernon adventure was risky for a submarine. In view of the protection afforded transports, the U-boat commander was taking far more of a chance than is customary in Tonnent operations.

The German admiral, however, is understood to be under very heavy pressure both from the war lords and the civilian population, to make good on their boasts that the United States troop ships would be destroyed.
This pressure at home accounts for reported intentions of the Teu-tons to go up against the certainty of destruction of their undersea craft.

Naval experts are fully confident of the Allied-American ability to keep on sending troops as at present. They have never denied the possibility of a U-boat picking off a transport.
They do maintain, however, that Germany will go up against a wall of convoys and other anti-submarine measures, which will mean that her drive is futile.

In connection with the reported German campaign against transports it is recalled by naval experts that America has transported over 1,600, 000 men overseas and that the losses have been only a handful. This is taken as conclusive proof that the Germans will fail.

SIXTEEN I. W. W. FIREBUGS JAILED

LOS ANGELES, Sept. 9.—Sixteen I.
W. W. are now in jail at Fresno and Sacramento, representing the entire membership of a gang under indictment for starting incendiary fires in California, according to U. S. Marshal
S. J. Shannon. Several of the men under arrest, the marshal's office said, have confessed.

The men held at Fresno include Frank Elliott, accused of setting fire to the Fresno planing mill and the Hanford cannery at a total loss of $1,000,000; George Tabits, said to have set fires at Turlock and in the Modesto district; Frank Abbott, Elmer Anderson and Harry Gray.

"Dublin Bob" Connell is among those held at Sacramento, and the officers say he has made a complete confession.

PARTY CENTRAL COMMITTEES TO ORGANIZE ON TUESDAY

Some Twists and Turns Occur
As Result of Writing In of Names

Under the law party central committees elected at the primaries on August 27 are to meet at the court house Tuesday afternoon for the purpose of organizing.

The primaries resulted in the election of a complete central committee for the Republican party and one for the Democratic party. The Socialist and Prohibition parties made almost no nominations and the Progressives none, for central committeemen, and election of committeemen for those parties came to a case of writing in names at the polls. Writing in was done only here and there, with the result that election of central committeemen in some instances was made by one, two or three votes.

The six men who had been nominated and who were elected Republican county central committeemen from the first district are six of the seven central committeemen for the Progressive party from the first district. Their names were written in vice. The name of G. H. Randall was written in once. By some kind of chance, the names of Edward Chaffee and S. W. Stone, Prohibition party men, were written in twice and they thus walked away with the election as central committeemen for the Progressives from the second district. No one's name was written in in the third or fifth districts at all. There is no probability that the Progressive central committee will even be called together. That will mean that the Progressive party in this county is officially dead.

Doubling-Up
Some other interesting turns were seen in the selection of central committeemen. For instance, there is R.
Larter, Republican war-horse from he, lowlands. These many years he had been a stalwart Republican party man, and he is yet. He was nominated and his name appeared on the printed Republican ballot as a candidate for central committeeman, and he was regularly elected. So far, so good. On top of that it comes that Larter is also a member of the Prohibition party central committee.

Some registered Prohibitionist wrote Larter's name in on the Prohibition ballot, and he has a place as a member of the Prohibition committee.

The same thing that happened to Larter, Republican, happened to Richard Gregory of Fullerton, Democrat.
Gregory's name was written in, and he is officially a member of the Prohibition county central committee.
Howard A. Wassum of Tustin and George W. Moore of Wintersburg are just as officially members of the Socialist county central committee. In their cases, they are not even elected from the districts in which they live.
Moore lives over in the second district, where he was a candidate for supervisor, and he is elected as a member of the Socialist committee for the first district, which comprises Santa Ana. Wassum lives in the fifth district, where he was elected supervisor, and he, too, appears as a Socialist committeeman for the first district.

As the records stand on the official election returns at the court house, the central committees of the various parties follow:

BAKER AGAIN IN FRANCE: WILL IMPROVE U. S. FACILITIES

Must Enlarge Air, Medical,
and Transportation Services
For Greater Army

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—Improvement and enlargement of airplane, medical and transportation service will be undertaken as a result of Secretary of War Baker's second trip abroad.

With plans for a four million army by early summer of 1919, the scope of these branches must be vastly enlarged. To this end Baker, who is now in France, has taken with him
Aeronautic Director Ryan, General
Hines, chief of embarkation, and General Gorgas, surgeon general.

Their stay will be indefinite but it is assumed the secretary will return here despite renewed suggestions that he will establish semi-permanent headquarters for himself in France. In this connection it was recalled that President Wilson on Baker's first visit wrote him a letter expressing a hope for an early return. At the same time he expressed his full confidence in the war chief, who was then under senatorial fire.

On this occasion it is admitted there is less reason for such a message and hence Baker's stay may be rather longer than it might otherwise be.
Incidentally it is pointed out Baker and Ryan will doubtless be able to return with much useful information to offset the senatorial air report and the Hughes committee report, which is likely to develop in their absence. The presence of General Hines in the party is especially significant.

"Turn-around" and debarkation in France have been serious problems.
With heavier shipments of men and supplies coming on, the transportation situation will become increasingly important. In this connection it is recalled that war and navy officials recently surveyed the problem in the United States with a view to relaxing pressure on the overburdened ports.

General Gorgas will review the aure problem, medical attention and the general question of enlarging the medical service to meet the great demands of a four million army.

MORE CURTAILMENT NON-ESSENTIALS PROVIDED FOR

WASHINGTON, Sept. 9.—The new preference list made public by the war board foreshadows a much more drastic curtailment of the lesser essential industries, officials declared today.

It definitely prescribes that industries shall receive basic materials first in the order of their importance in contributing to victory. No materials will be available for other industries until the needs of those according preference are fully supplied.

There are four great classes, the first embracing plants in the more vital war work, such as aircraft production and ammunition making.
Class two includes copper, brass, locomotives, steel wire and kindred industries. Class three takes care of electrical equipment, food factories and a few others. Newspapers, tobacco plants, medical factories and others are included under class four.

The list will furnish a key to draft officials for granting industrial exemption and determining whether a man is engaged in an essential pursuit.

"Key men"—the absolutely essential ones—will in some cases be excluded, officials say, but it is also predicted some dilution of labor will be necessary even in the more important plants. Men claiming exemption in these classes must present affidavits of employers setting forth they are indispensable.

Another Way to Hooverize

A good way to eliminate waste is to check out your money as you need it. Too much pocket money is always a temptation. Banking your salary and checking it out for expenses helps you plug up extravagances and waste. It helps you circulate your money in the proper channels.
